CAREER
asenso

QUESTIONS YOU COULD BE ASKED & QUESTIONS YOU SHOULD ASK

QUESTIONS
YOU COULD BE ASKED

What's been your biggest achievement, that you've been proud of?

What areas of the role do you think will be more of a challenge?

Tell us about your work experience to date?

What attracted you to this role?

What do you know about this company?

Give an example of when you faced conflict in a work scenario. How did you resolve it?

Are there parts of this role that naturally lend to your strengths?

Are you considering other positions in other companies?

Do have experience of working to tight deadlines?

Where do you see yourself in five years?

What contribution can you bring to this company?

Why are you leaving your current employer? (if relevant)

What are your short term and long term goals?

What are your interests or hobbies?

How would your friends and family describe you?

How soon can you start?

Why should we hire you?

What are your salary expectations?

QUESTIONS
YOU SHOULD ASK

What would a typical day for me in this role look like?

What's your favourite part about working here?

What metrics or goals will I be evaluated on?

What kind of support structure exists if I have questions or challenges within the role?

What are the career progression options within the company?

What are the similar characteristics or habits of your team members who are currently acing this role?

Assuming I was successful for the role, is there anything I could be doing or reading now to help me prepare?

NOTE TO GRADUATES:

There are no shortcuts or hacks for doing your best at interviews. Preparation and practice is all you need to give it your best shot. Why not practice by getting a friend to pick a question you could be asked at random and film you answering it?

At the end of an interview, your interviewer will typically ask, "Do you have questions for us?" and your answer should always be "yes". Make sure you have a few relevant questions ready for this moment!